

Amendments to the Specification

Please replace the Abstract with the following:

ABSTRACT

A system and method for accessing pharmaceutical data include receiving a username and a password from a web page, and identifying an account having the username and the password associated therewith. The system and method further include reading a service level associated with the identified account, determining at least one question that is authorized to be presented to the web page based on the service level associated with the account, and populating a list control element of the web page with the at least one question.